

～んです (The Explanatory Tone)

Atama ga itai desu.
(My head hurts.)

Just a Statement.

Atama ga itai n desu...
(The thing is... my head hurts.)

Explanation / Seeking Empathy.

Remember!

"Desu" just states a fact. "N desu" adds the story. It implies "I want you to understand my situation".

Plain Form + N + Desu

Iku → Iku n desu.

Tabeta → Tabeta n desu.

Suki da → Suki na n desu (Change DA to NA!).

BUILDING EXPLANATIONS WITH [N DESU] & [KA]

(Why)

(Don't eat)

(Explanation Glue)

(?)

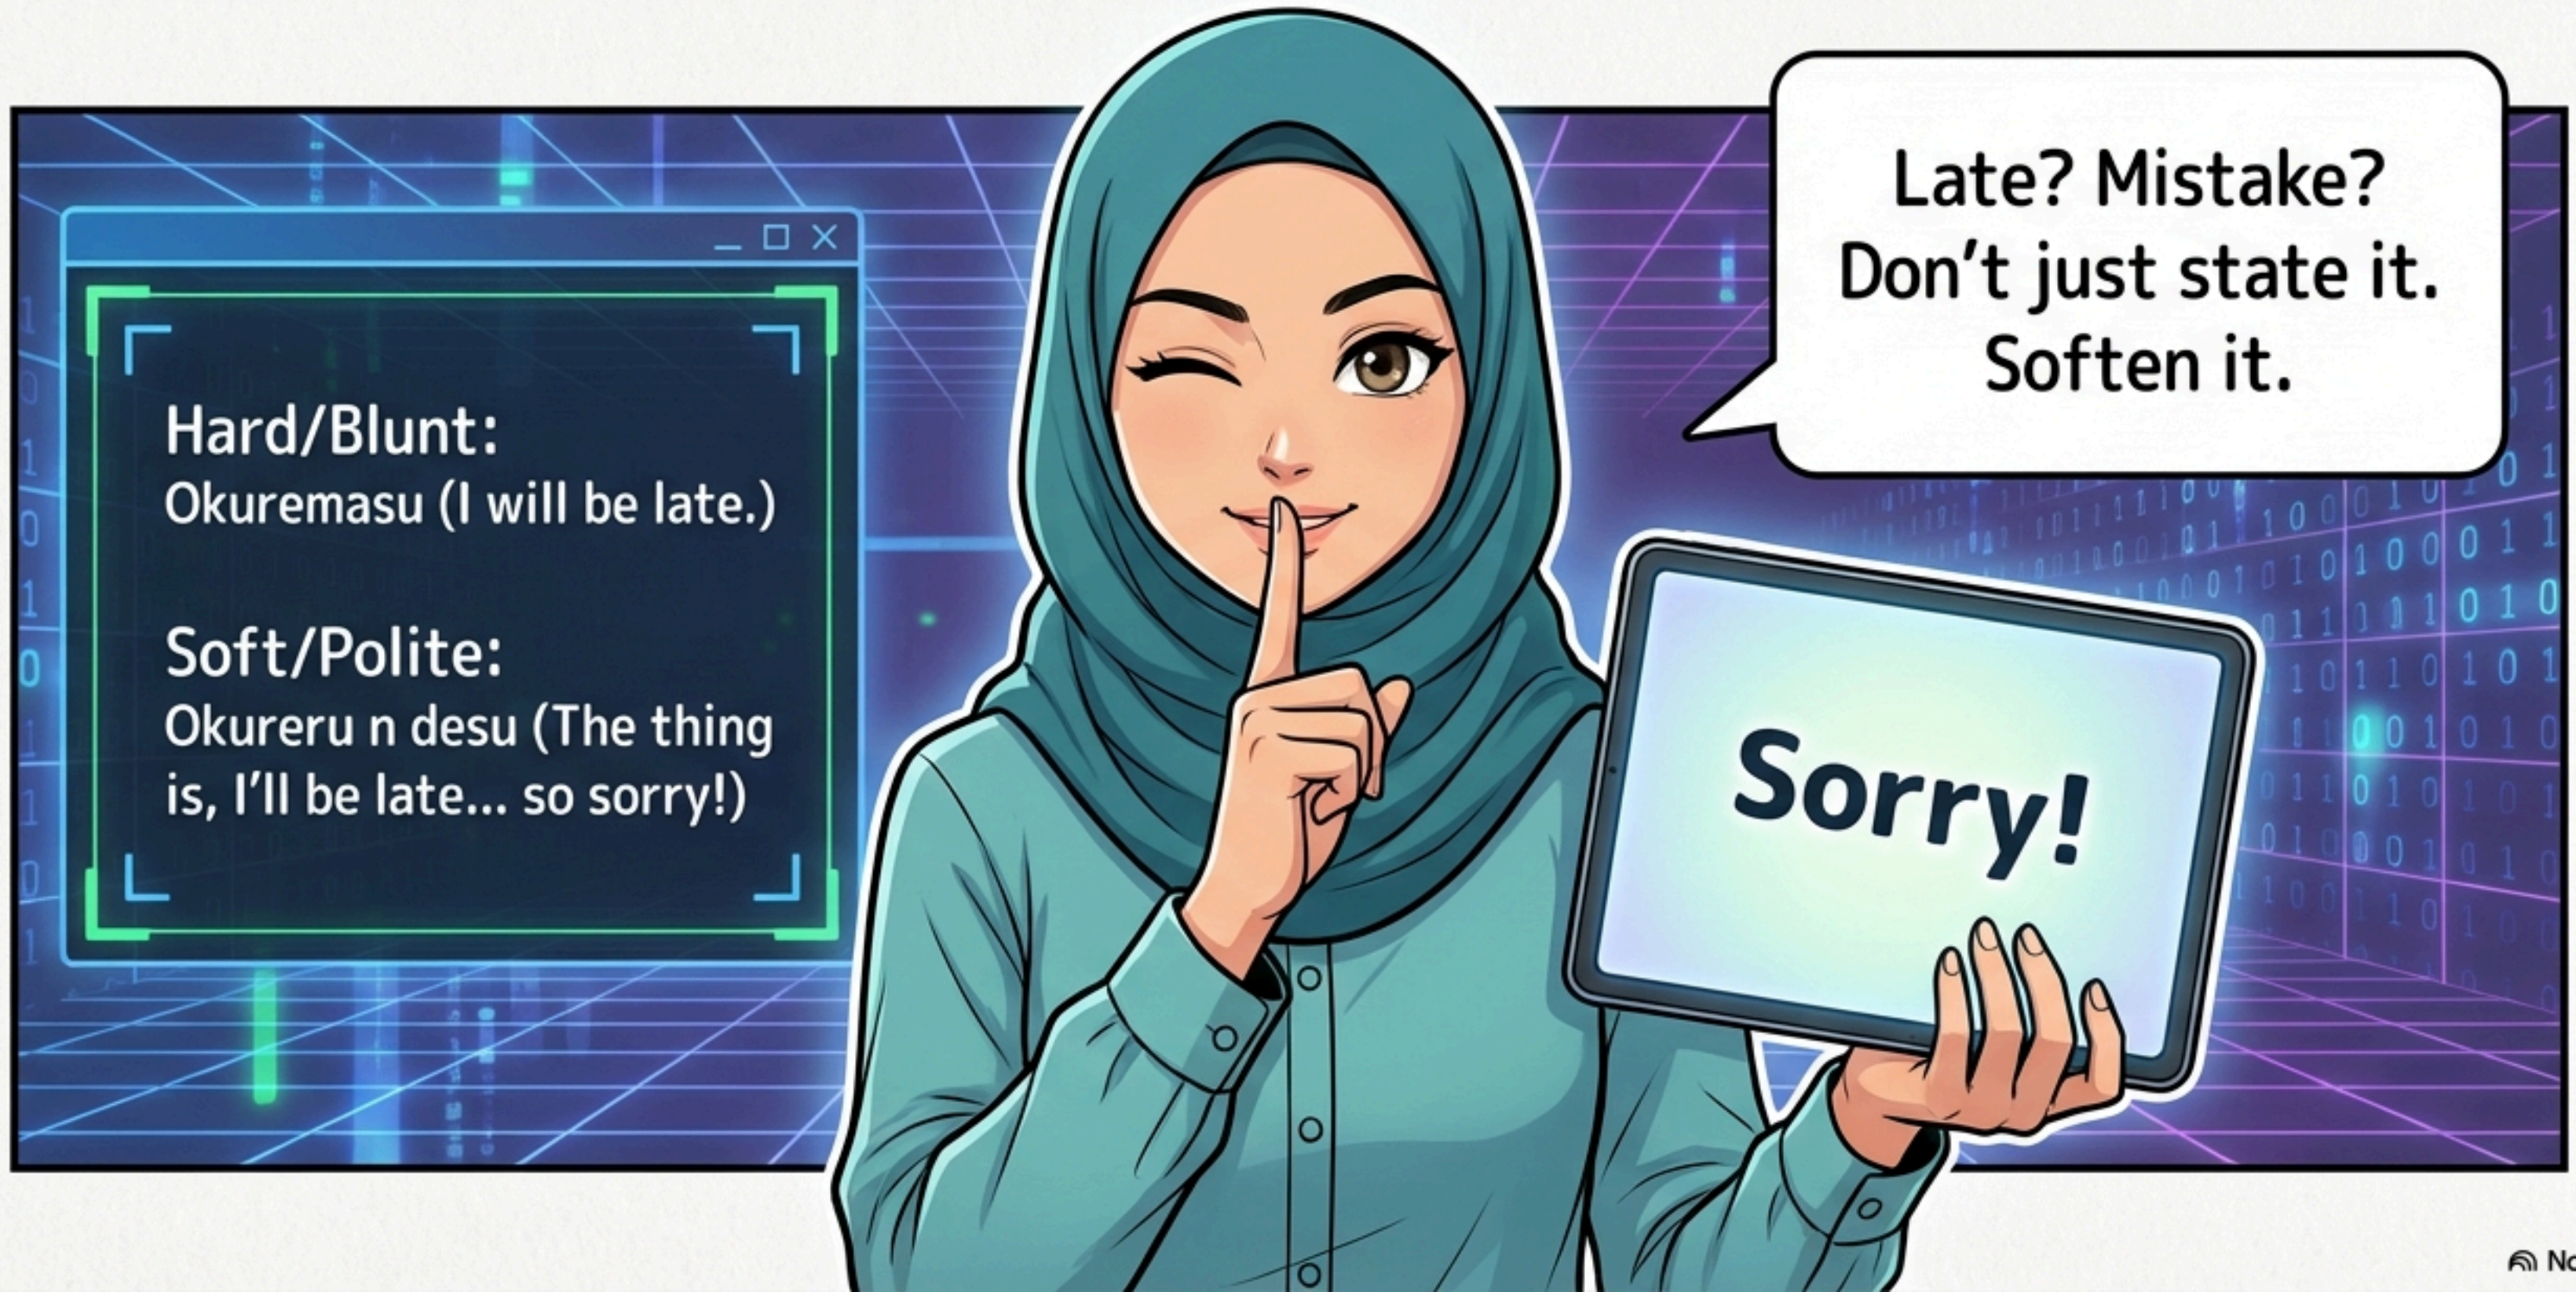

どうして 食べない んですか？

(Why is it that you aren't eating?)

Raya's Hack: The Ultimate Excuse Tool

“Don’t Over-Explain!”

Watashi wa
Joy n desu!

Don't use it for simple facts about yourself.
You aren't a mystery!
Just say "Watashi wa Joy desu".

Cheat Sheet

Structure: [Plain Form] + n desu

! Noun/Na-Adj: NA + n desu

Usage:

1. Explaining a situation (“The thing is…”).
2. Giving a reason.
3. Softening an excuse.

Master the nuance, master the conversation.